HOLIDAY INN GETS S.J. RENEWAL NOD

St. Joseph Planning commission has given Mar-Kay Development Co. of Benton Harbor the top recommendation for building a motel on block 4—the city's main prize in its urban renewal plans. Mar-Kay, which represents Holiday Inns of Memphis, Tenn., yesterday proposed an 80-unit motel with meeting rooms and restaurant for "block 4"—the 75,000 square foot plot bounded by Main, Port, State and Ship streets in downtown St. Joseph. The Planning commission recommended the Holiday Inn proposal over that of Andrew S. Olipra of Chicago who had proposed a similar sized motel, a restaurant and a service station. Holly Grills, Inc., of South Haven would operate the restaurant facilities in both the Olipra or Holiday Inn proposals. The proposal before the Planning commission yesterday was for "Block 4" alone. No mention of plans to utilize portions of "Block 3," which lies just to the north of "Block 4" and on which a senior citizens high rise housing unit is under construction, was mentioned. J. V. Burkett represented Mar-Kay Development Co. at yesterday's meeting. He asked for 60 days to submit final building prints and said construction would probably start in 90 days after the plans had been approved. Final decision on any contract concerning urban renewal land is up to the St. Joseph city commission.

College Deferment Extended

Refuse To Let LBJ Change The Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to extend draft deferments of college undergraduates after a rowdy, late-night session where tempers flared and charges flew.

The controversial college deferment issue evoked the sharpest debate as the House voted 362 to 9 to extend for four years the existing military draft law, due to expire June 30.

The House-passed version clashes with a Senate bill that would give the President broad authority to revise draft policy. Another difference is the House's insistence that Congress have the final say over whether a lottery-style selection system can be used — as President Johnson desires.

The differences must be resolved in a Senate-House conference committee.

SHOUTING SESSION
One member after another denounced as disgraceful Thursday night's proceedings, but the majority of those present — tired after a marathon session the night before — repeatedly voted to limit debate and shout down amendments.

By the time Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., got the floor with his amendment to end student deferments, debate on the issue had been limited to one minute.

"This is a most disgraceful way to legislate on a bill of this importance," Pike told his colleagues.

He said projecting current Vietnam war statistics would leave 48,000 U.S. dead in four years — a normal college undergraduate period. "In time of war there is no justification in saying to one group of citizens, the wealthier, they can postpone their risk of being one of the 48,000 dead."

Pike's amendment lost on a standing vote, 140 to 41. Rep. Charles S. Joelson, D-N.J., said, "This is not a debate, it is a travesty, a burlesque. We are asking these young men to give up two years of their lives and we won't give them two days."

RUSHING TO GO
Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, inquired, "Can anyone tell us whether the engines are hot on the junketing plane to Paris?"

Lyndon Visits Expo 67

President Lyndon Johnson made a 75 minute visit to Expo 67 at Montreal yesterday. He said he was delighted and thrilled by Canada's big show but he was silent about the controversial U.S. pavilion which last week was emphatically criticized by Governor Romney. While making a brief speech at the ceremonial esplanade, the president was heckled by half a dozen young people protesting in French the U.S. involvement in Vietnam. The American flag was apparently accidentally ripped while it was being raised for the president. The flag was hauled down, taken away and the pole left vacant.

Egyptian Gunners Fail To Hit

Tension Rises While Peace Efforts Go On

From Associated Press
Egyptian antiaircraft guns apparently opened fire on two Israeli Mirage fighters today at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba, increasing tensions in a middle East braced for possible war.

The planes returned to Israel undamaged. It was the second Egyptian-Israeli incident in the Aqaba area in two days. Earlier this week, Egyptian shore guns fired on an Israeli patrol torpedo boat and forced it to return to Elath.

Meanwhile, American families hurried out of the Middle East as the big powers worked to avert an Arab-Israeli war, the Arabs continued to threaten and U.N. Secretary General U Thant prepared a report on his peace mission to Cairo.

AMERICANS LEAVE
A dozen families from the U.S. Embassy in Israel left Tel Aviv Thursday night for Rome after the State Department ordered all dependents of U.S. diplomats to leave Israel and Egypt within 48 hours. The evacuation also started from Cairo.

More than 500 women and children were covered by the order. In Ottawa, a Canadian government informant said President Johnson told Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson at their conference Thursday he may propose a Big Four summit conference if U.N. efforts for peace in the Middle East do not succeed.

THANT RETURNS
U Thant returned to New York Thursday night after talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser and other Egyptian officials. He was expected to report Egypt's position to the Security Council this weekend and ask what should be done next.

Nasser reportedly agreed to revival of the U.N.-Egyptian-Israeli armistice commission but not to withdraw his forces from the Israeli frontier or to lift the blockade he has proclaimed against Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban arrived in Washington, hoping to learn from President Johnson what the United States intends to do to open the Gulf if diplomatic efforts fail to end the blockade. The waterway is Israel's only direct route to East Africa and Iranian oil.

SOVIET ROLE
The Soviet Union, while backing the Arabs, was believed working quietly and independently to prevent war in the Middle East. After British Foreign Secretary George Brown met with Kremlin leaders, British authorities indicated the Soviets brought up the Vietnam war as a major obstacle to holding any Big Four talks on the Arab-Jewish confrontation.

Two London newspapers said today that Britain is assembling a naval task force off Aden with orders to stand by for a possible operation to keep the Gulf of Aden open.

Travel Inn Motel Hit By Burglars

An overnight burglary at the Travel Inn motel, Riverview drive, Benton Harbor, netted thieves an estimated $1,500 in cash and checks, according to Mrs. Fred Rendall, auditor and office manager.

The money was taken along with a cashbox stored in a metal filing cabinet in the accounting and business office adjacent to the customer office at the motel.

DESKS RANSACKED

Mrs. Rendall said she came to work about 8 a.m. today and discovered all the accounting papers and other papers from desks scattered over the floor. The filing cabinet had been pried open.

Entry was made by cutting a screen in a small bathroom area at the rear of the office.

Mrs. Rendall said she did not know how much of the loot was in cash. Benton Harbor police were notified of the burglary shortly after 8 a.m. today.

It brushed against a power line carrying 72,000 volts.

Her Sobs Ignored By House

Resolution Favors Viet War Policy

LANSING (AP) —The House approved Thursday a resolution supporting U.S. policies in Vietnam, overriding the tearful opposition of a woman legislator with two sons in the service.

Rep. Rosetta Ferguson, D-Detroit, a Negro whose third son is to go into the Army next month, charged some white legislators used "political influence" to keep their boys out of the service.

"I'm tired of legislators who don't have sons old enough to go into the Army, creating resolutions supporting wars all over the world," she said.

"My white colleagues have sons the same age and their's don't have to go," she added. "But my sons have to go." "Is it because they're black?" she sobbed. "Is it because they're poor? Is it because I don't know the right strings to pull?"

"You're bleeding me to death," Mrs. Ferguson said. "I can't give any more. I can't support any more wars."

Rep. Robert Stites, R-Manitou Beach, who has a son in Vietnam, also opposed the resolution, which put the House "firmly and unequivocally in support of the position of the President and Congress."

"We should do something to support the men who are in Vietnam," Stites said, "not the men who are here sending them over there."

NO LEGAL EFFECT
The resolution has no legal effect, but is to be sent to the President and to Michigan congressmen as an indication of the views of the House.

Some members said the resolution was a meaningless and added a state Legislature should not spend its time debating national and world issues.

"This resolution and 15 cents in the hands of a congressman would buy him a cup of coffee in the cafeteria down there," said Rep. Thomas Sharpe, R-Howell.

The vote on the resolution was 66-28, with 16 Republicans and 12 Democrats opposed.

New Laser Discovery

Science fiction and James Bond to the contrary, the laser beam promises far greater fruits in the realm of constructive research than it does as a destructive agent. The term laser is an acronym for light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation.

What it means is a beam of light of narrow intensity that can travel great distances without spreading. Science fiction addicts will recognize the laser as the "death ray" capable of killing or evaporating in one brief ray of light.

In the serious world of science, it is acknowledged that the laser does carry lethal potentials of great interest to the military. But the value of the laser already has been established along more constructive lines.

Medical uses are one vast potential of the laser which are as yet little more than a dream. Surgical possibilities alone may develop into one of the brightest tools on the medical horizon. Industrial uses of the laser are multiplying almost as rapidly as they can be tabulated.

A whole new area of laser possibilities has been opened by a team of American and German scientists, who have developed a method of generating ray bursts of very limited duration and extreme intensity. It is difficult to comprehend something which lasts only 30 millionths of a millenth of a second. Laser beams lasting no longer have been produced, each generating 50 million watts of power.

In a radar system, such pulses could measure distances within a fraction of an inch. Or they can measure movements in molecular action too rapid for observation by any other means. As the technique is refined, the possibilities in laboratories everywhere will expand tremendously.

There are many instances in history when the most destructive substance turned out to be the most creative. But the laser may prove to be the ultimate in both extremes.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day is traditionally the day a grateful nation pauses to remember and honor the men who died in the service of their country. The long roll is being lengthened daily as names are added from the battlefields of Vietnam.

Memorial Day was proclaimed a hundred years ago by Gen. John A. Logan in honor of the Grand Army of the Republic which he commanded. For years the day was devoted particularly to those who fought for the Union in 1861-65.

The passing of decades brought other wars, and those who fell in them were remembered. Gradually, however, the meaning of Memorial Day has come to embrace all those who have gone on. All cemeteries now bloom with the efforts of the quick in devotion to their dead. There is in this an instinctive understanding of the meaning of life.

Americans in recent years may have let slip into the background the true purpose of the day. This is unfortunate. A nation that forgets its dead is on the way to forgetting the causes for which they died.

Memorial Day serves a fine and noble purpose. Those honored have made America what it is—the greatest and the freest country on earth. This Memorial Day should be dedicated not only to gratitude and homage but to the firm purpose that the heroism of the past shall not, in the end, prove to have been of no avail.

It is fitting that all pause on this day, in the midst of preparations for picnics and outings, to recall that without the great sacrifices of the men of the thousands of places where America's sons fought, there would be no United States as we know it today.

Pity The Poor Man

Consider the home gardener or—to name him more accurately—the Man-Who-Takes-Care-Of-His-Own-Place. The poor fellow is not nearly as crazy about his garden as he may, in his more enthusiastic moments, lead one to believe. After a while he effects a rationalization of sorts, and almost convinces himself that he's having fun.

He mows the lawn with many a weary inprecation at the dandelions, prunes, sprays, weeds, clips and trots up and down the turf with a little green cart of ingenious design which spreads grass seed, fertilizer and crab grass eradicator, rolls an edger down the walks to provide that trim look and prods about with a long-handled fork digging up the weeds that survive the expensive chemical killers.

But when day is done and the whole place is manicured and barbered and shampooed, does the home gardener come into his reward, sprawling in sun lounge and contentedly surveying results of his labors? Not exactly. The insects take over and chase him indoors.

Nuclear Rackets Feared

As if the world weren't already in a sufficiently bad state, an advisory panel to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has warned of the possibility of a black market developing in fissionable materials. Terrorist and criminal elements presumably would like to acquire these components to build their own nuclear weapons.

Certainly the possibility exists. It is no less true of nuclear weapons than it has been of every major advance in the science of weaponry. Imagine the intrigue which must have surrounded the invention of gunpowder, the Gatling gun or any of the other major arms innovations before they became generally available.

Part of the concern expressed by the panel deals with the production of plutonium as a by-product of atomic power plants. Plutonium is an essential ingredient in nuclear weapons. With the escalating construction of atomic energy plants, the panel estimated that by 1980 some 200 pounds of plutonium would be produced per day, or enough for 10 atomic bombs.

To prevent any of this material from falling into the black market, the panel suggests the development of an effective international safeguard system and extreme penalties for anyone convicted of dealing in nuclear materials illegally.

Relying upon the realities of the nuclear world as a foundation, the latter point of attack seems much more likely of achieving some degree of success. Enacting a meaningful international control of fissionable material would have to include the Soviet Union and Red China as participants. Provable changes of attitude by the leaders of these two countries is the first and foremost obstacle.

This is the first public mention of the possibility that clandestine weapons might be constructed from black market materials by underworld elements. There has been much discussion of the possibility of nuclear weapons being manufactured secretly, both by countries which do not yet possess them and by the present nuclear powers. But now a third possibility—a criminal element with no national ties, except to the highest bidder, has been introduced.

Perhaps the Atomic Energy Commission began only recently considering the possibility, but it is a certainty that certain elements—the same ones mentioned in the panel's report—have had their eyes on the potential for a long time.

Talk is heard in Pennsylvania of another tea party against taxes. But the original party was held in Boston and Pennsylvania added the Declaration of Independence.

They were also forbidden to add any lines of garments selling at higher prices than they handled in 1941.

speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Our family believes in a yearly medical check-up. It was at your suggestion that we now have it done as an anniversary present to each other. I am completely satisfied that my doctor is telling me the truth when he tells me that I am in good condition and all I need to do is to lose a few pounds.

Unfortunately, this is not so with my wife. Her concern is that she is not being told the truth about her condition and, therefore, does not derive any comfort from the doctor's assurance. If I were to permit it she would Dr. Coleman start a new examination the day after she finished the last one. How can I best help her?

S. H. C., Oklahoma
Dear Mr. C.: I am delighted that you, as many of my readers have, picked up the idea of a yearly examination as an anniversary present. The reaction to this suggestion has been most gratifying. A recent letter told me that a mild diabetic condition was picked up and kept in control by early recognition and treatment. Another reader said that the bursitis of his shoulder was found to be due to gout, during the yearly "gift" examination.

In the absence of any symptoms, pain or weight loss, the yearly examination is quite sufficient. For people who wear glasses and for people of all ages a yearly eye examination and a dental survey is extremely necessary.

Now let us examine the specific problem that is going on in your own family. Your wife, like many other people, lives in such dread of disease and of cancer that they seem to pattern their entire lives around this fear.

They do not derive any satisfaction from the assurance that their complete check-up was normal. So fearful are they with their cancerphobia that they block out the support and assurance their doctors give them.

It takes a great deal of energy and patience but the results are worthwhile if you and your doctor constantly give her the security she needs. It must be made clear that doctors are obligated to treat patients and certainly would not deprive her of the benefit of modern drugs and surgery. You must ask her why she thinks she is singled out as the only person in the community who is not to be given these benefits.

There is perhaps a deeper problem involved in the emotions of your wife. She is suffering from the disease of fear which can be as destructive as any real physical illness. The reason for her fears must be found with the same degree of accuracy that sought to uncover any physical ailment during her check-up.

And herein lies the answer to how you can best help her. You would not in a minute hesitate to seek the advice of your doctor if she had severe abdominal pain, sinus infection or a cough.

In a similar way neither you nor she must be ashamed to discuss her emotional problems, family conflicts and other distressing situations with your own personal physician. This discussion is easily as important as any other part of a general physical check-up.

If your doctor feels that the problem is too complicated, for him he will refer you to a psychiatrist or a psychologist who are better equipped to unravel the complexities of the subconscious mind. You and your wife will gain a great deal of inner peace from such a conference.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH —Live your life, don't die it.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

CONTRACT BRIDGE...

By B. Jay Becker

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

1. ♠AKQJ94 ♣Q92 ♦J3 ♣82
2. ♠KQ9863 ♣8 ♦KJ ♣Q982
3. ♠KQJ9643 ♣Q5 ♦A2 ♣A7
4. ♠KJ7642 ♣K ♦A75 ♣A63

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 NT	Pass	7

1. Pass. There is no good reason to think that four spades is a safer contract than three notrump. On the contrary, it is likely that North will have at least one stopper in any suit led and will then be able to cash nine or more tricks. A four spade contract might result in the loss of four tricks, particularly since North has twice shown minimum values after opening the bidding. The hand can stand four losers in notrump, but not in spades.

2. Four clubs. This hand does not lend itself to notrump play and is obviously better designed for a suit contract. The four club bid (forcing) permits North to go on to five clubs or show belated support for spades. Minor suit game contracts are comparatively rare, since most hands with a potential of eleven tricks will usually produce nine tricks at notrump, in this case the danger of attempting a no-trump contract is much too great.

3. Four spades. The chances of making four spades are excellent, since four tricks are very unlikely to be lost, while three notrump might turn out to be a shaky affair. The danger in notrump is that the opponents having the advantage of the opening lead, might be able to establish their long suit before dummy's spades can be established.

It is possible that both four spades and three notrump can be made, depending upon partner's hand, but, in the long run, four spades is likely to prove safer and easier to negotiate than three notrump.

4. Four clubs. It is practically certain that partner can make three notrump in this case, but a pass is not recommended because there is still a reasonable possibility of making a slam. Thus, six clubs would be an excellent contract if partner had:

♠QJ987 ♣K102 ♢KQ10882

Investigating the slam possibility by bidding four clubs does not seriously jeopardize making a game. North is likely to respond four spades, five clubs or six clubs. The intention is to pass whichever of these bids North chooses to make, since we have done practically everything possible to arrive at the best contract. If North cooperates with our slam try by bidding four hearts, we jump to six clubs.

BORN TODAY

Eugene Goossens was born in London, England, in 1893, and named for his father, then conductor of the Carl Rosa Opera Company.

He began his musical study at the age of five, and two years later made his first public appearance as a violinist. Further study was taken at the Conservatoire at Bruges, at the Royal College of Music, where he was awarded the "Liverpool" scholarship, and with Sir Charles Villiers Stanford studied composition.

His lifelong ambition was to become a composer and conductor, and his first work, "Chinese Variations," was given at a college concert during his student days. Then he was 19, Goossens joined the Queen's Hall Orchestra as a violinist. Three years later Sir Thomas Beecham named him to conduct some of the operas he was then producing.

Since that time Goossens had conducted important orchestral concerts in England and America, in addition to his regular engagements with the Carl Rosa Opera, the National Opera Company and the Russian Ballet.

Among his many compositions are the opera, "Judith," a number of piano works, the scherzo, "Tam o' Shanter," "Nature Poems" and "Rhythmic Dance."

Others born this day include singers Al Jolson and Peggy Lee, business executive Laurence Rockefeller, actors Paul Lukas, Robert Morley and John Wayne.

FIFTH PLACE

I would like to point out an error in the track listings in the Herald Press for the Rotary All-County Track Meet. It was stated that Childs of Benton Harbor took fifth place in the 100-yard dash; however, it was not Childs of Benton Harbor, but Phillips of Lakeshore who took fifth place.

If this was a mistake on the part of the judges, I don't know how they made such a "goof," because the Phillips boy finished a good yard and a half ahead of Childs, and in fact had nearly overtaken the fourth place runner.

So let's give credit where it is due. Maybe taking fifth place isn't so terribly important, but I'll bet Phillips wasn't very happy to see someone else given the award that he had won, and hundreds of spectators, coaches and trackmen saw him take that fifth place.

BENTON PLANNERS APPROVE PUBLIC HOUSING

Fairplain Decision Reversed

New East Napier Site Apparently Is The Difference

Plans for a 100-unit elderly housing project near Fairplain Plaza met little opposition in a public hearing last night, in comparison with a hearing last December. The project also won the approval of the Benton township planning commission.

The planning commission approved a recommendation that the site on East Napier avenue be rezoned from industrial and commercial to multiple housing. With the recommendation, goes the stipulation that if the housing project is abandoned, the property reverts back to its original zoning.

NEW LOCATION

Only one man of the half dozen persons present for the hearing voiced opposition to the housing project. The hearing last December was attended by 25 persons and a petition with 300 signatures was presented.

The difference apparently is from the change in the location for the elderly housing project.

The planning commission vetoed the project in December when developers wanted to build the project on Norwood avenue, about two blocks east of the shopping center and half a block north of Napier avenue.

Objection was also voiced by several persons that the elderly would have to cross the busy Napier avenue to reach the shopping center.

The present location is on the same side of the street as the plaza — south of Ashley Ford, east of Fairplain Plaza and about 500 feet south of Napier avenue along Plaza drive. A walkway will connect the project area with the shopping center.

The elderly housing project will be developed on approximately 13 acres of land, presently owned by Pete Larson. The housing will be reserved for elderly persons 62 years of age or older.

In answer to an objection by Jack Martorano of 2126 Glen drive, that the housing project would hamper future commercial and industrial development, Philip M. Connolly from the Housing Assistance Office in Chicago, said businesses would profit from the 100 families living in this project.

Elderly people need to be in the center of things, he said, where everything they need is readily accessible within walking distance.

Connolly also mentioned during the meeting that he recommended to Nathan Downey of the Downey Real Estate, planners for the project, and Paul Alken, director of housing projects for Benton Harbor and Benton township, that the project be made less "institutionalized."

Connolly said he suggested some other layout of buildings which will reduce the use of land, but which would eliminate the "institutional" image of the project.

Connolly was present at the hearing with Downey, Allen and Larson to hear the commission's decision. The Housing Assistance Office will review the plans and specifications submitted by the developer.

If all requirements are met (among them proper rezoning) the government will sign a contract with the developer who will then complete the project and sell it to the Public Housing Authority.

Commissioner William Jacobson made the motion for approving rezoning and Ed Ritchie seconded the motion. Albert Troffer and Tom McCoy abstained from the voting and Commissioner George Welch was absent. Oliver Rector did not vote as acting chairman.

The recommendation now goes to the township board of trustees for approval. Their next meeting is 7:30 p.m., June 6.

In other business, Rector read a letter from the Berrien county road commission disapproving the abandoning of Hall and Carlton streets — Hall street because of future development of House of David property; and Carlton street because it would not be in the public interest. The letter was signed by Heath P. Calvin, engineer, manager.

Referred to committee for study were the requests of Alphonso A. Myers, 457 Vineyard street, Benton Harbor, to rezone property on Crystal avenue from residential to industrial or commercial; and of C.D. Federighi, 1927 Forbes avenue, St. Joseph, to rezone the south side of Napier avenue, east of Shopper's Fair drive, from commercial to heavy industrial.

Myers made the request to use the land as a contractor's storage space and eventually as an office. Federighi's request was to establish a wholesale gasoline bulk plant and retail outlet.

Ambulance Service Is Explained

Tragic Night Last Tuesday

There was a 14-minute lapse between the first alarm and when an ambulance arrived at Michigan Standard Alloys plant Tuesday night, according to Melvin Huttenga, president of Action Ambulance.

Huttenga said the firm's two duty ambulances were tied up at the time of the first alarm on runs to Memorial and Mercy hospitals. Three employees were injured in an explosion at the plant on Arthur Mendel road, north of Benton Harbor. Huttenga said the ambulances had to travel about five miles to reach the scene. A story in Wednesday's newspaper said a plant official was concerned about the time lapse.

Huttenga described the ambulance runs as part of a tragic night in which two boys died in a fire at Millburg. Besides transporting the bodies, ambulances also stood by in case of other injuries. Standby service also was provided at an earlier fire in Sodus.

There Is Still Time To Change

Robert Price Talks To Economic Club

By CHARLES O'NEIL
Staff Writer

American cities are not dead — they are alive and in trouble in New York.

This was the theme of an address Thursday night to more than 200 members of the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan at Holiday Inn. It was delivered by Robert Price, attorney, executive vice-president of the Dreyfus Fund and a former deputy mayor of New York.

Price said that unless mid-west and far western cities are prepared to meet and overcome the mistakes made by eastern cities — notably New York — in pollution, the lack of city planning, urban unrest and poor transportation facilities, they will be doomed to repeat these mistakes.

And the urban problems are manifold:

"As a sample," Price said, "there are one-half million people in public housing, another half-million waiting to get into New York public housing and still another half-million who don't know they need public housing."

LEADS IN CRIME

"New York has a police force of 28,000 and still leads the nation in crime."

"In a given year, $2,000 false fire alarms are turned in. There was a bribe list actually in print saying how much money it would take to make a Sanitation Department worker an area superintendent."

"The problems of cities are not new ones, Price said.

"The Bible mentions the plight of cities 402 times. But cities cannot be obsolete; they have a rightful place in society — people want to be with people. But economically, the United States cannot afford another New York — and in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, you can learn from us."

In any effective fight to save a city, Price said that there were four basic problems which must be faced first.

"There's public apathy — the people think that city hall simply doesn't give a damn and that the city council is made up of a bunch of hacks. This is an attitude which must be changed."

"Secondly, there is bureaucratic indecision on the part of civil servants. I would rather see a man make 10 decisions, three of them wrong, than to make no decisions at all."

"And there are power brokers and special interests — and sometimes these groups are not the bad guys. There are banks, hospitals, welfare groups. They favor change for everyone but themselves and they want more from the government than is their rightful share."

"The fourth problem is the center city complex — the idea that a certain section of the city should be favored over other sections so that it may flourish and the others be sacrificed."

The problems are grave ones, Price admitted, but he proposed two solutions.

MORE TAXES

"I think there should be an amendment made to the Constitution giving greater taxing power to the cities, taking the power from the federal government. There should be a conference of cities to work to this end."

"Also there should be positive thought about urban living. The first would give cities the money to cope with their problems. The second would confirm the thought that cities, after all, are making headway."

"You in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph can do yourselves a favor — you can go to New York and see the living but old, ugly, defective, inefficient hodgepodge that has made so many mistakes. Go look at the mistakes. Learn from them. Don't leave the task to your grandchildren because then it could be too late to save what you have now."

POLITICAL OUTLOOK

Speaker Says LBJ Can Win In 1968

Robert Price, in a pre-dinner press conference before his address to the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan Thursday night, contributed his share to the increasingly popular guessing game of what's what with who's who in 1968 GOP presidential candidates.

Price, now executive vice-president of the Dreyfus Fund and a former deputy mayor of New York, holds valid credentials as a political pundit.

He successfully managed John V. Lindsay's congressional and mayoral campaigns in New York City and also served as chief of N.Y. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's presidential primary campaign in Oregon in 1964. Nelson Rockefeller's presidential primary campaign in Oregon in 1964. Oregon was the only state that Rockefeller won.

"Rockefeller says he is a non-candidate and I think he believes he is a non-candidate."

REAGAN TOO BUSY

"California is a man-sized job for Reagan. I don't think he deserves serious consideration next year as a candidate."

"I think that a Romney-Percy ticket is not the one that should be put together. Regionalism isn't a factor. I have my own reasons for thinking it wouldn't work."

Can Lyndon Johnson be beaten in 1968 by the GOP?

"I wouldn't bet on him to lose it. I think that now, he's at the lowest pitch that he's ever going to reach. And it's always easy to criticize a president. I don't think that there's anyone around now to suggest solutions to the problems he faces."

The taxation problem also concerns Price.

"A graduated income tax is better than a property tax and I say that as a moderate Republican. It's a fairer tax, with the poorer exempted and the rich having to pay the most. It's a more effective tax since it raises more money and the poor guy doesn't get socked with the rich. I think that people who earn more and get more from society should be willing to pay more for these things."

SWIMMING POOLS

Commenting on racial unrest

in urban areas during "Long Hot Summers," Price said "It isn't the problem of the Negro as such — it's the minority group itself. I think that a lot of the problem comes from our concentration on the problem — like when you have to go to take a physical examination — Suddenly, your arm starts hurting. The single fundamental cause of summer trouble is simply the 'Long Hot Summer' — the fact that the days are hot, sticky, conducive to rioting. I think the single most effective thing we can do is to have swimming pools in trouble spots."

"Cities should try to break down the Negro ghettos, if not physically, then in concept. Cities can't allow invisible walls to surround an area. Ghetto community leaders should meet regularly with city officials and also, there should be traffic through the area from other areas of the city. If people get to know one another, they will realize that the other side doesn't wear horns."

F.O.P. Will Host Safety Patrolers

Blossomland Lodge No. 100, Fraternal Order of Police, will hold its annual picnic for members of the safety patrol of the Benton Harbor consolidated school district Saturday.

The picnic will be held at the lodge grounds on Dillon Road near M-139. More than 400 members of school safety patrols are expected by the F.O.P. Contests will be held and prizes awarded including bikes, radios and phonograph records.

Is Leaving LMCWill Head
New School
In Seattle

Dr. Jesse Defore, dean of Technologies at Lake Michigan college, will leave June 30 to accept a position as president of a new community college in Seattle, Wash.

He will head a 5,000-student "North Campus" which is just being completed in Seattle. It is one of three being built in the city. The other two are still on the drawing board. One is scheduled to open in the fall of 1968 and opening of the third is three years away.

Dr. Defore said he will be leaving LMC with considerable regret. "The college has provided an inviting and challenging environment and has been receptive to my personal educational philosophy," he said.

"However," he added, "the new post has offered opportunity for wider professional responsibility at an earlier date than I felt any right to expect." The new post, Dr. Defore said, was offered partially because of his association with a Tallahassee, Fla. educational consulting firm. The firm made plans for the Seattle community college system, he said, and he met officials of the new college system while working with the consulting firm. He has been associated with the firm, Associated Consultants in Education, since February of 1966 and will continue the association after moving to Seattle.

Work with the firm, he added, is not a part-time job, but part of an effort to aid development of new educational programs at nearly all levels.

Dr. Defore has been with Lake Michigan college since August of last year, when he was named dean of the technologies department. He was formerly a department head at Southern Technical Institute, a branch of Georgia Tech. at Marietta, Ga.

He obtained his bachelor's degree at Mercer university, specializing in chemistry, physics, mathematics and civil engineering. He has a master's degree in physics and doctor's degree from Florida State university.

He visited England in 1961 as an American participant in a technical teachers exchange, and served as an assistant editor for the Journal of Engineering Education.

Defore, 40, was born in Bibb county, Ga. He and his wife, Mary, have three children: Lydia, 7; Evelyn, 5; and Dorothy, 4.

The faculty increase will bring to 54 the number of instructors at the college.

The board was also informed that five instructors will leave the college at the end of the year. They are Patricia Buck, Judy Kolinski, Stanley Shewalter, Jack Taylor, John Yegge and Joseph Huebner. The board passed a resolution commending Huebner for his work at the Southwestern library.

NEW TEACHERS
Six faculty members were appointed to the faculty. They are: Elvin Cutler, mathematics; John Doyle, student counselor; John Flaherty, automotive mechanics; Duane Hall, industrial technology; Don Pittenger, chemistry; and Darrel Staat, English.

Benton township's infamous "killer crossing" will be eliminated by Nov. 30, according to plans of the state highway department.

Bids will be taken June 7 for building an overpass to carry Euclid avenue traffic across the I-34 business loop where an intersection now in use has been the scene of seven traffic deaths.

The last fatal accident occurred Oct. 23 when a car driven by former State Senator Harry Litovich collided with an auto from New York, killing Edna Freiberg of New York City. There have been a number of serious accidents since.

Two ramps and a bridge will be built at an estimated cost of $320,000 with completion scheduled Nov. 30, the highway department said.

TAKING BIDS

Bids will be taken in Lansing at the same time for two other Berrien county road projects, one in Allegan county, one in Allegan and Kalamazoo counties, one in Barry, Kalamazoo and Allegan counties and one in Van Buren county. All are part of a highway project package that will cost an estimated $24.5 million.

The second Berrien county project, to be built with federal participation, calls for a half-mile of four-lane highway with curbs and gutters from the approach to the Napier avenue bridge to Broadmoor drive in Fairplain.

Two-way traffic is now using half of the bridge. When work is completed, the bridge will be opened to four-lane traffic. Estimated cost of the road work is $210,000. Completion date is Nov. 15.

Also in Berrien county there will be a fourth-mile of widening and paving on Oak street (M-60 business route) at 17th street in Niles at a cost of $50,000 with completion due Sept. 30.

In Van Buren county, 2.6 miles of the relocated Blue Star highway will be paved at an estimated cost of $100,000.

The road was rerouted to skirt Consumers Power Company's Palisades nuclear powered electric generating plant and the new Harry LeBar Drake recreation area. It runs approximately from 29th avenue in Covert township to 77th street in South Haven township and is in temporary use. Grading and drainage have been completed and gravel base laid in preparation for the paving, scheduled to be completed by Oct. 15.

JUNKYARD SCREENING

In Allegan county, junkyard screening on M-89 east of M-40 will cost an estimated $10,000 with completion Sept. 15, 1968.

A joint Allegan-Kalamazoo county job calls for patching on M-118, M-40, US-131 and M-43. The work will cost an estimated $80,000 and is to be completed by Sept. 15.

The three-county work will consist of putting non-skid surfaces and sealing on shoulders of M-79 from Nashville west to Barryville hill in Barry county and non-skid surfacing on M-43 and U-131 in Barry, Kalamazoo and Allegan counties. The estimated cost will be $60,000. Work is to be completed by Sept. 15.

FIXED MILLAGE TABLED

Van Buren Board Sets
Tax Allocation Figures

By JIM DONAHUE

South Haven Bureau

PAW PAW — A proposed county millage vote on a fixed county tax of 16.5 mills was tabled for further study by members of the Van Buren County allocation board here yesterday after the board set allocation figures for the current year.

If the board later agrees to adopt a resolution calling for a fixed millage vote, it would be the second time such a proposal has gone before Van Buren county electors in the past two years. A proposed 16 mill fixed allocation was defeated in 1965.

No objections were raised at a public hearing on the suggested allocations for this year and members voted unanimously to set the millage as follows:

The 15 mills will be divided between school districts, which will receive 8.64 mills; the county, 5.2 mills; townships, 1 mill; and intermediate school district, 16 mill.

EXTRA MILL

The school districts of South Haven and Gobles would be allowed an extra mill each under a state law allowing for a levy of the highest naused millage of any section of the school district against the whole district. Both South Haven and Gobles are cities and do not pay township tax, and both school districts lie over the Allegan county line, making them eligible for the extra mill. Arlington and Keeler townships did not submit budgets to the board and will not receive the county allocation.

This year's allocation will mean a decrease of six one-hundredths of a mill to the schools, an increase of one one-hundredth of a mill to the intermediate school district, and the other three one-hundredths of a mill to the county.

Board members spend a good deal of time reviewing a suggestion by chairman Elmer Van Dyke to consider placing the question of a fixed millage on the ballot for a new election some time later this year.

VAN DYKE EXPLAINS

Van Dyke explained that the board can file a resolution to this effect with the county clerk which, after 30 days, would require the board of supervisors to set an election within the next 90 days. Approval of the fixed millage would automatically abolish the tax allocation board.

The board chairman said he didn't think there would be much quarrel for the principal of a fixed millage since it would allow each county unit of government to have a financial base from local taxes from which to prepare annual budgets.

Board members were in general agreement to a proposed 16.5 mill request, which would be an increase from the present 15-mill limit and a proposed formula for spreading the 16.5 mills as follows: schools, 9.57 mills; county, 5.75 mills; townships, 1 mill; and intermediate school district, 18 mills.

South Haven School Supt. F.O. Norlin, who was present at the meeting, asked whether the additional mill would be allowed to the South Haven and Gobles districts under the fixed millage plan.

Board members A.A. (Eddie) Smith said he understood that it would not. The board tabled action until it can be determined whether the additional one mill could be added to the millage question in these two school districts.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Are Mixed On Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed today following Thursday's technical rebound. Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were scattered throughout the list. Gainers outnumbered losers but the industrial average was lower because of a sloppy showing by blue chips. Du Pont, Control Data and General Dynamics were fractional losers. Combustion Engineering was up 2 1/2. Some very low-priced issues were active and fractionally higher. Among them were Lionel, Gar Wood and United Park City Mines. International Oils were irregularly lower following their rally. The volume on Thursday's rally was disappointingly small, so chartists had little faith in the advance. The Middle East situation remained critical. Construction awards sagged in April. Standard Oil (New Jersey) opened on 5,400 shares, off 3/4 at 62 1/2. General Motors rose 3/4 to 79 1/2 on 3,800. On Thursday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2 1/4 to 323.2. Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Molybdenum rose about a point. Up fractionally were Edo Corp. "A," Kaiser Industries and Struthers Wells. Small losses included Brazilian Traction, United Air Products and Aerojet-General.

Couple Would Like Monthly Dividend From Investment

By SAM SHULSKY
Q.—We're living on a pretty close budget. Some dividend income every month would be welcome. Do you have any stocks making monthly payments?
A.—There happen to be a few income-type stocks distributing monthly payments, including Federal National Mortgage Association, Scott & Fetzer, Winn-Dixie Stores and William Wrigley.
But you could get a far wider choice if you divided your investable money into three equal parts and put one amount into one or more stocks paying dividends in January, April, July and October; a second portion into stocks paying dividends in February, May, August and November; and the third into stocks paying in March, June, September and December.
Thus you would have a check coming in every month of the year. A stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring you a list of these issues.
Q.—I have traded over-the-counter issues several times. It seems each purchase is at or above the "ask" quote and each sale below the "bid." A broker told me he is allowed to mark these stocks up or down. There is usually a commission, too. Is it ethical to make a profit and a commission, too?
A.—In counter deals, a broker acts either as a broker or as a principal. If he acts as a broker he charges you a commission, only; if as a principal he charges you a mark-up in price, only.
As for never matching the "bid" and "ask" prices: These are, at best, only general ideas of where some brokers were making a price at one time. They have little bearing on what you pay, or get, when you trade. It's always best to find out what the market—as of the moment—is before you give a "go-ahead" on a purchase or sale.
Shulsky welcomes all reader mail and tries to include all problems of general interest in the column. While he cannot undertake to answer all queries personally, readers desiring investment lists should address requests to Sam Shulsky enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope care of this newspaper.

Test Case Involving Juvenile

Youth Denies Stealing Car

St. Joseph police and Berrien county juvenile authorities plan to make a test case out of the alleged theft of an auto by a 15-year-old youth.
The boy, observed in the act by two witnesses, refuses to admit the theft. County juvenile court authorities on the instructions of Probate Judge Ronald Lange will hold hearings before committing him to a juvenile home.
HIGH COURT RULING
Under recent Supreme Court decisions, investigating officers must conduct a more intensive investigation and in all instances handle the case as if the youth were an adult, guaranteeing the same immunities granted an accused adult.
The case will be the first conducted in Berrien county under the new decision.
A car owned by Nellie Marie Tesson, 603 State street, was taken about 10:20 a.m. Thursday and found later in a garage at another home.
Police picked up a St. Joseph youth who fitted the description of witnesses who saw the car taken and later parked but the boy refused to admit taking it.
